

Dear Parishioners

It's been more than two months since my last email. Little has happened on the lawsuit, and we are still waiting for the judge to rule—not on the merits, but whether the church's effort to have the suit dismissed will succeed, or if the lawsuit will go forward.

Last week I received an anonymous letter in the mail, apparently from a parishioner. Because it is likely that some of you may have similar questions and misconceptions of what is going on I have posted that letter online, along with my reply.

I hope you take the time to read the anonymous parishioner's letter and the response. It can be accessed on the savethechurchyard.org site in the "Feedback" area. My address and email are on the site and I remain available to answer any questions you may have to the best of my ability.
